

MELANCHOLIA

A GLASSY GLAZE STONEWARE VASE BY BERNDT FRIBERG

This Berndt Friberg vase from Gustavsberg's studio, Sweden in 1964 showcases a deep, lustrous glaze, which transitions subtly in color from rich, earthy tones to a muted, smoky grayish green near the top. Friberg's choice of a hare's fur glaze—a technique he perfected—creates a textured, almost velvety appearance that invites closer inspection. The glaze's finely layered colors emphasize the vase's sleek silhouette, with the deep brown base shifting gracefully into softer hues. This controlled yet organic color gradient highlights Friberg's skill in combining traditional Japanese-inspired techniques with Scandinavian minimalism, resulting in a piece that feels both serene and striking.
